

Carer forklifts: Quality, Technical Support, Reactivity

25 February 2015 by Carer

Carer stands out among the best developers of forklift trucks, thanks to its ability to satisfy the needs of numerous customers, both in Italy and abroad. Our last delivery was studied for one of the main world players of the cement production.

The strenght of a company is not only measured on the quality of its products, but also on the level of service it is able to provide its customers and partners with. That is what makes Carer, with a widespread network of distributors and dealers on all the main markets, a complete company, able to answer promptly to any post-sale request, with original spare parts.

In the month of January one of our long-time customers, one of the main companies of cement production, with an important plant in Sardinia, commissioned a forklift truck with the ability to operate safely to heights up to 10 metres. A very untypical request, and the umpteenth demonstration of the wide range of specifical requests Carer can address with customised solutions. Carer's product range encompasses both standard products - responding to all the needs of any common application - and special trucks developed by our SPED Department to answer any specific movement need, as was the case of the machine we shipped to Sardinia.

Carer's strenghts are reliability, ease of maintainance, but also on the ongoing training and updating of our technical support team: all aimed at providing excellence in our services, because we know how important Carer forklift trucks are for the companies in which they are employed. That is why we gave all our customers our continuous support through a call center in several languages.

Carer: the Italian excellence in the world of intralogistics.
