

Only at HAMMEL - used machines without risk

6 May 2015 by HAMMEL Recyclingtechnik

At HAMMEL you are in the right place, if your "NEW" should be a "USED" because HAMMEL Recyclingtechnik GmbH offers you a wide selection of used recycling machinery. All machines are professionally reconditioned and adapted to the individual needs of numerous customers. Thus, company HAMMEL can guarantee reliable quality for every budget.

A fast supply of interesting offers is ensured by professional logistics and our knowledgeable staff that puts each machine through their paces. Therefore transparency arises about the state of each recycling machine. We also eliminate any and all security-related defects, as well as care for the visual preparation of each machine.

Because our customers get their recycling machine directly from the manufacturer additional costs arising from additional dealer levels can be avoided. This means: bright predictions for even better income opportunities.

Not only is the selection of used HAMMEL machinery enormous but also the benefits that all machines provide. Therefore we always keep a large inventory of used recycling machinery ready for our customers and prospects. We offer both new recycling machines as well as older used machines with high operational performance. All important information about each individual machine and its technical and optical condition is described in detail and understandable, and our consultants are available to all interested parties at any time.

The background to this is that used recycling machines due to young age and low operating hours are a welcome alternative to new equipment and customers, often during tough economic times, rather engage in purchasing only one or two year old recycling machines. The business of selling new machinery is nevertheless not affected by this trend. Rather, it must be seen as a circuit. And the used machines are of interest to a large clientele.
