

Broshuis expands again...

1 July 2015 by Broshuis

Trailer manufacturer Broshuis, of Kampen, the Netherlands, is doing very well indeed. Thanks to high demand for special trailers, this innovator finds itself forced to expand its factory to meet the expected demand. With great innovations such as the SL-Trailer, 100 tonner and SL-AIR, Broshuis has the solution for every transport problem. Moreover, Broshuis is the only place you can still get a custom-built trailer.

The factory is being expanded with an additional 4000 M2. The new production hall will be used for final assembly of the SL-AIR, among other things. The new factory will meet the latest safety requirements and will be equipped with the latest technological tools. CO2 reduction and other environmental aspects were carefully considered in the design so Broshuis can meet its targets for 2020. In addition to the new factory, a new office building is also being built. It will be built perpendicular to the existing office building and should be able to accommodate the growth in the coming years.
