

Takeuchi US Plans to Build New Distribution Facility in Pendergrass, Georgia

17 August 2015 by Takeuchi

Takeuchi-US has announced they are making plans to expand their Pendergrass, Georgia operations by building a new distribution facility on their existing campus. The new facility is scheduled to be completed by the end of 2015, and will bring new employment opportunities to the area.

The new distribution facility will increase the storage space by over 40 percent and will provide additional parts and machine storage for future growth through 2019 and beyond.

The current operation has over 70 full time associates and provides machine storage, parts distribution and a training area for dealers and their employees. Takeuchi is located in the Valentine Farms Industrial Park development.

“The last few years have been very strong, and we have seen an increase in machine demand as the economy continues to improve,” said Clay Eubanks, President of Takeuchi-US. “Not only are we excited about our expansion plans, but it will provide additional employment opportunities within our company. When you can positively impact your community with additional job prospects due to increased growth and development it is a win, win situation for everyone.”

Source: Teubert Kommunikation, Wilhelm Schäfer GmbH