

Tigercat increases Product Support for Pacific Northwest

25 August 2015 by Tigercat

Tigercat is pleased to announce that Nate McMurtrey has joined the Tigercat product support team.

Based in Elmira, Oregon, Nate McMurtrey will focus on providing after-sales technical support to Tigercat's expanding customer base in the Pacific Northwest.

Nate has been working on product support for heavy-duty equipment for over a decade with numerous qualifications in engine diagnostic troubleshooting and repair as well as electronic engine control troubleshooting. Nate brings extensive mechanical, electrical and hydraulic knowledge and experience to the landing through his work as a Field Service Technician for Tigercat dealer Triad Machinery for seven years focusing on Tigercat 870 and 830 track feller bunchers. Nate graduated top of his class from the rigorous Heavy Truck Repair and Diesel Core Program at Wyoming Technical Institute.

Nate looks forward to supporting the Tigercat product line to the best of his abilities through technical phone support and hands on involvement, ultimately sharing his passion for technical assistance with his coworkers and customers.

Source: Tigercat Industries Inc.