

Packages on the Move: Daimler Trucks Mexico receives Delivery Orders for 140 Freightliner Trucks from Transport Service Providers

23 October 2012 by Daimler

Stuttgart / Mexico: In Mexico, packages are now increasingly on the move with the trusted Freightliner vehicles of Daimler Trucks. Two leading transport and logistics companies in Mexico have purchased a formidable package of 140 commercial vehicles of the medium-duty and heavy-duty types Freightliner Business Class M2 and Freightliner Cascadia. Daimler Trucks Mexico has won UNNE Corporate, the logistics company for special transport of construction materials and crude oil derivatives, as a new customer for 50 individualized Freightliner Cascadia trucks. The express- and package delivery service Estafeta already has several years of cooperation with Daimler behind it. The combination of state-of-the-art exhaust and safety technology in every one of the 90 ordered Freightliner trucks convinced the customer once again.

Gerhard Gross, President & CEO of Daimler Trucks Mexico: "Thanks to the flexible configuration possibilities of our vehicles, we can offer our partners individually tailored solutions for their specific transport operations. Daimler Trucks Mexico represents quality, state-of-the-art vehicle technology and, not last, low total cost of ownership."

Estafeta – Mexico's leading express and package service provider

With the large order of 90 Freightliner trucks, Estafeta completes its existing fleet, which will be 80 percent operated with commercial vehicles of the Daimler Trucks brand. 70 trucks have already been handed over to Estafeta – the rest will follow by the end of the year.

"Our goal is to achieve high service quality for a broad spectrum of services. With the Freightliner truck we are sending a signal: We want to continuously improve our business and to have the latest safety and environment technologies on board with our trucks. Daimler Trucks Mexico is a guarantor of quality, design and innovation which enable us to process all our deliveries efficiently", says Ingo Babrikowski, CEO of Estafeta.

The Mexican company has been the leading express and package delivery service of the country for over 30 years. For more than 10 years it also offers additional services, among others, supply chain management and air freight. Estafeta is also active internationally with import and export services in 230 countries.

UNNE Corporate – Established logistics company in Mexico

Noé Paredes, CEO of UNNE Corporate, is convinced: “We want to react to market trends and customer requirements at an early stage. That is why we are working closely with companies like Daimler Trucks Mexico, which share our high quality standards”.

The customer has already received the 50 Freightliner Cascadia.

The new trucks are operated by TRACSA (Transportación Carretera S.A.), a company which belongs to UNNE Corporate. TRACSA is a reliable logistics company for transport of various types of freight such as construction and raw materials, and crude oil derivatives.

The service group UNNE Corporate has been on the market for over 40 years and is leading in the areas of transport services, logistics integration and industrial service. UNNO Corporate operates branches throughout Mexico.

About Daimler Trucks Mexico

In Mexico, Daimler Trucks has two production plants in Santiago Tianguistenco (Federal State Estado de México) and Saltillo (Federal State Coahuila), an international replacement parts center and a sales center for used trucks. Daimler Trucks Mexico has a network of more than 90 sales and service outlets and is the leading manufacturer and exporter of trucks of all weight classes in the country.

Source: Daimler Communications; Mercedes-Benz