

Ergonomic Solutions Launches SpacePole Essentials for the Warehouse, Distribution & Logistics Sectors

14 January 2016 by Ergonomic Solutions

The world's leading retail technology mounting solution to support innovation throughout the supply chain

Ergonomic Solutions, an acknowledged leader in the design and supply of technology mounting, mobility and security solutions today announced the launch of the SpacePole® Essentials™ range for Warehouse, Distribution & Logistics applications.

We are now excited to bring our knowledge and expertise to the Warehouse, Distribution & Logistics sector, which has seen a similar evolution towards mobility, requiring innovation where the user interfaces with technology in both mobile and static applications. The SpacePole Essentials W,D & L product line is specifically developed for these business sectors. Building upon, and compatible with our existing Essentials range, the Essentials W,D&L product line provides a large number of mounting options, both standard or customised, as per the requirements of the end user.

With the emphasis on mobility and real time data capture, the SpacePole Essentials W,D&L product line delivers mounting solutions for technology in a range of fork lift, reach truck, collection and delivery trolleys applications. Where the requirement is for a fixed mounting of technology, such as goods in and out, our products interface with existing racking systems.

Speaking of the launch, Mark Crysell, Product Marketing Director, Ergonomic Solutions, said, "SpacePole has become the de-facto standard for the retail industry around the world. Technology that is driving change in that sector, such as the use of tablets and touchscreen based applications has also transformed the Warehouse Distribution & Logistics workspace." He added, "SpacePole Essentials W,D&L unlocks the potential of that technology by providing a wide range of mobile and static mounting options that maximise investment whilst providing the best possible user interface for the worker wherever they are operating within the Warehouse & Distribution workspace."

Ergonomic Solutions understands the complexities of integrating technology into new or existing systems and furniture. With nearly twenty years of experience, and over 4 million installations globally, SpacePole is already the technology mounting platform of choice for leading retail, and transportation organisations across the globe.
